

I believe the no-call requirement should be absolute with no exceptions when initiated by the consumer. Phone service is purchased by the consumer for his benefit. Access to this service should not be used to the benefit of others and detriment of the consumer.

Tom Karman